

QuickChunk Community Rules

Version 1.0 | 8 October 2026

These rules apply to QuickChunk's Discord, shared lobby, community channels and other community spaces moderated by QuickChunk. Hosting responsibilities and paid-service conditions are covered separately by the Hosting Rules and Terms of Service.

1. Respect other people

No harassment, personal attacks, racist or discriminatory abuse, hate, threats or publishing another person's private information. Discuss disagreements calmly and follow moderator directions. Report problems privately rather than organizing retaliation.

2. Keep channels useful

Use each channel for its stated purpose. Avoid spam, repeated messages, unsolicited mass mentions and deliberately disruptive content. Use support channels for help and include useful details without passwords, tokens or private account information.

3. Share servers and advertisements honestly

Use the designated server-showcase space for server posts. Keep one thread per server and update the existing thread. Include truthful gameplay information, compatible versions and a real join address. Do not impersonate staff, copy another server's identity or use misleading links.

Promotions must follow the rules of the channel in which they appear. Advertising another server is not automatically prohibited by QuickChunk's mandatory basic server chat filter; channel-specific rules and optional owner settings may still restrict it.

4. Protect the community

Do not share malware, phishing links, stolen accounts, credentials, scams or unlawful material. Publish only content you are entitled to share. Do not evade moderation through alternate accounts or encourage attacks against another community.

Discord use is also subject to Discord's terms and community guidelines. Owners of customer Minecraft servers moderate their own communities and must follow the applicable hosting and public-listing requirements.

5. Moderation and review

Moderators may remove content, warn, mute or restrict community access proportionately to the issue. Urgent threats may require immediate action. A community moderation action is not, by itself, a new payment or a waiver of paid-service or consumer rights.

For a private report or review request, contact support@quickchunk.com and identify the relevant channel, message or incident. Do not include private credentials. Hosting Rules: <https://cdn.quickchunk.com/rules.pdf?v=20261009>. Terms of Service: <https://cdn.quickchunk.com/terms.pdf?v=20261009>.